Season of Concern is the Chicagoland theatre's fundraising effort to assist those in need. Season of Concern continue to support direct-care AIDS service organizations, as they have for over 30 years. They also provide much needed assistance to help local theatre makers get back on their feet due to COVID, through the newly formed Malcolm Ewen Fund. Grants are awarded to Equity and non-Equity theatre artists struggling from health-related issues as well as aiding those who were unemployed during the pandemic. Tonight, we will be collecting donations for Season of Concern. On your way out of the theater, your gift, be it large or small, is of vital importance to those who need it. Thanks again from all of us, and thanks on behalf of Season of Concern.
